Hiring Manager
National Bank of Egypt UK Ltd

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am writing to express my keen interest in any potential employment opportunities at National Bank of Egypt UK Ltd. I have recently relocated permanently to the United Kingdom from Egypt, and I am enthusiastic about the opportunity to contribute my skills and experience to your esteemed institution.

I hold a Bachelor's degree in Commerce (Accounting) from Aswan University and have professional experience as an Accountant at the National Bank of Egypt. In addition, I worked in customer-facing and administrative roles at both Seascop and Etisalat in Cairo, where I gained strong experience in customer service, account handling, and communication—essential skills in the banking sector.

I would like to clarify a specific circumstance during my time at the National Bank of Egypt. I was officially hired after successfully completing all required assessments. On my first day, I voluntarily disclosed to branch management that my sister's husband was also employed by the bank—although he worked in a completely different branch and city (Luxor), while I was assigned to the Safage branch in the Red Sea Governorate. No one was aware of this connection, and I could have chosen not to disclose it. However, I believed it was important to begin my career with full honesty and integrity. Despite the consequence of being let go, I value the experience as a powerful lesson in professional ethics and transparency.

Being fluent in both Arabic and English, and familiar with both Egyptian and UK client cultures, I believe I can offer a valuable perspective and adaptability to your team. I am highly motivated, flexible with working hours, and available to start immediately.

Please find my CV attached. I would greatly welcome the opportunity to discuss how I can contribute to your team and support your mission in serving clients across both the UK and Egypt.

Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Mustafa Shamndy
